TESTING SERVICES

Armed Forces Classification Test (AFCT): Required when military personnel want to change career fields and do not currently have a qualifying score for the career moves. This test consists of questions in nine different areas: General Science, Arithmetic Reasoning, Word Knowledge, Paragraph Comprehension, Numerical Operations, Auto and Shop Information, Mathematical Knowledge, Mechanical Comprehension, and Electronic Information.

Aviation Selection Test Battery (ASTB): The primary test used by the U.S. Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard in the selection of officer aviation program applicants.

Career Development Courses (CDC): Digital exams for DoD Fire and Emergency services employees that evaluate the achievement of knowledge objectives for several career certifications.

Defense Language Aptitude Battery (DLAB): A digital 90 minute test military services use to measure a service member's ability to learn a foreign language.

Defense Language Proficiency Test (DLPT): This 180 minute listening and 180 minute reading test is designed for determining proficiency in foreign languages.

FAA Federal Aviation Administration (FAA): This test is for Active-Duty Service Members and Dependents, Retirees, Veterans, DoD civilians, DHS civilians and Dependents of military retirees with base access. DOD/DOH contractors and college or high school Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) cadets are not eligible. To schedule or register for testing at MCAS Cherry Point, visit: faa.psiexams.com/faa.

Oral Proficiency Inventory (OPI): This 20-30 minute one-on-one phone interview between a certified ACTFL tester and the examinee assesses how well a person speaks a language. By appointment only.

Test of Adult Basic Education (TABE): This 90 minute, multiple-choice test measures an individual's knowledge of math, reading, and language. This test is used to qualify an active-duty member with an AFCT/ASVAB GT score of 99 or below for Tuition Assistance.

MILITARY EMPLOYMENT SKILLS PROGRAM

This three week course will refresh and advance your knowledge and skills in Reading, Grammar and Mathematics. This can help improve work performance and assist in future educational goals. MESP is not an Armed Forces Classification Test (AFCT) prep course.

HOW CAN WE HELP YOU?

Personal & Professional Development Education Office

The Education Office offers academic and career advisement to active-duty service members, spouses, dependents, and DoD civilians. Whether you want to get a certificate, associate, bachelor's, or graduate degree, we can help. Our mission is to enrich the quality of the entire military community by providing you with a broad range of high-quality personal and professional learning opportunities.

EDUCATION FINANCIAL AID BENEFITS

Financial Aid Information: The Education Office can help you find and apply for scholarships, federal grants, loans, and work-study funds for college from the vocational to graduate level. To apply for FAFSA and scholarships visit studentaid.ed.gov/sa/afsa. To apply for scholarships and other programs, such as MyCAA (which provides spouse career assistance) visit mycaa.militaryonesource.mil/mycaa.

GI Bill Information: The Education Office can deliver information about both the Montgomery GI Bill and the Post 9/11 GI Bill through one-on-one counseling sessions. Our education specialists will explain the differences and advantages to each type of GI Bill, how to select the program that best fits your individual needs, and how to apply and use these benefits. Visit VA.gov or call 1-888-442-4551 to learn more.

EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

The Education Office staff can guide you through degree programs, course offerings, military learning for college credit, tuition assistance, VA benefits, and more. Unsure of your academic or career path? We can assess your strengths and talents to help you find success. Open to active-duty Service members, family members, retirees, and DoD civilians.

JOINT SERVICES TRANSCRIPT (JST)

This official document recommends credits for military training in a format that is widely accepted by colleges and universities. To view your JST, log on to jst.doded.mil.

LEADERSHIP SCHOLAR PROGRAM (LSP)

Pursue your education at highly selective schools after you transition out of the Marine Corps (emphasizing on junior enlisted Marines). Visit leadershipscholarprogram.com to learn more.

MARINE CORPS COOL (CREDENTIALING OPPORTUNITIES ON-LINE)

Explore credentials that are related to your military training and experience. Marines can apply for civilian certification and license funding that is related to their Military Occupational Specialties (MOSs). Get started at cool.osd.mil/usmc.

MILITARY APPRENTICESHIP PROGRAM (USMAP)

This registered apprenticeship has structured training programs. Active-duty military members can receive a Department of Labor (DOL) registered Apprenticeship Certificate of Completion or achieve status as a journeyman in their MOS field. This will enhance job skills and show motivation for more challenging military assignments. Learn more at usmap.osd.mil.

ONLINE ACADEMIC SKILLS COURSE (OASC)

This program is designed to assist Service members in building their reading comprehension, vocabulary, and math skills. OASC helps you to excel in your job, advance your career, continue your education, and build testing competency. This web-based course can be accessed at dantes.petersons.com.
